Cameraman "Shoots" Man Shooting at Him!

Photographer Howard Jones

ONE of the rarest action pictures ever taken! Imagine taking a picture of a man firing at you with a pistol! That was the situation in which Howard Jones, Knoxville, Tenn., Journal cameraman, found himself as he "shot" pictures of Ed McNew, professional bondsman and politician, shortly after McNew had been arraigned in court on drunk driving charges. McNew didn't want his picture taken and whipped out his pistol, firing at Jones as the latter clicked his shutter. Luckily for Jones none of the four shots struck him. In the photo, snapped by Jones, shown at left, you can see McNew, with pistol leveled, firing at the courageous cameraman. He hit the telegraph pole.

WORK ON RURAL ELECTRIC LINES TO START SOON

Engineer Stars Work On Specifications; Staking Planned In 10 Days

Staking for rural electrification lines in Pickaway county will be started within the next week or 10 days.

W. R. Cutnaw of Columbus has been approved as engineer and has started preparation of plans and specifications for the Pickaway county project, which will be part of the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative.

Staking for the lines will be started at the location of the meter station about two miles East of Kingston. About 74 miles of lines, to serve about 300 homes, will be constructed in Pickaway county in Pickaway, Circleville, Washington, Saltcreek and Walnut townships.

Rights-of-Way Obtained

A large part of the renewing of rights-of-way for the line construction has been completed. Approximately 50 interested rural residents attended a meeting held Monday evening in the Pickaway township school. Primary purpose of the meeting was to obtain additional rights-of-way.

Many rights-of-way for the Pickaway county project were obtained about two years ago and dated for one year. Since the expiration date has passed it is necessary to renew them. Officials said funds for the project will be available as soon as the signing of rights-of-way is completed.

$233,000 Available

An allocation of $233,000 by the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington to the South Central Ohio group was made recently. The allocation covers lines in Fairfield, Perry and Pickaway counties.

Seven Davey Aides Face Jury Charges

CAMPAIGN FUND COLLECTION HIT IN INDICTMENTS

Duffy Hints More Persons To Be Named; Early Hearings Asked

COURT FIGHT LOOMS

Legality Of Inquiry Faces Severe Attack

COLUMBUS, June 28—(UP)—Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy's special grand jury, which indicted seven high state officials on charges of soliciting or accepting contributions to Governor Martin L. Davey's campaign for re-nomination from civil service employees, was reported today to be preparing additional indictments.

Arraignment of the seven officials named in 13 indictments reported to Common Pleas Judge Charles A. Leach late Monday will be held some time this week after warrants are served. The grand jury, called originally to investigate Ohio's parole and pardon system last Winter, began its inquiry into campaign contributions on May 6 and called more than 400 witnesses.

Those indicted were: State Finance Director M. Ray Allison, two indictments;

J. Freer Bittinger, former speaker of the Ohio house of representatives and now attached to the governor's office, one indictment;

Daniel S. Earhart, attorney examiner in the sales tax division and former congressman, one indictment;

Thomas E. Dye, assistant state purchasing agent and former state Democratic chairman, two indictments;

Charles O. Wilson, investigator in the gasoline tax division, three indictments;

Frank W. Mowery, manager of the state office building, three indictments;

J. L. Kennedy, superintendent of buildings in the public works department, one indictment.

Attorney General Duffy and his assistants will press for early trial. (Continued on Page Two)

BRITISH CLAIM FRANCO CHARGE WITHOUT BASIS

LONDON, June 28—(UP)—The British government took issue today with charges by Generalissimo Franco that British ships are trading with Loyalist Spain in violation of the non-intervention agreement.

Franco cited 12 alleged violations. The British government instructed its representative in Nationalist Spain, Sir Robert Hodgson to inform Franco that Britain and the non-intervention board had investigated the charges and found them without substantiation.

In ten cases it was shown definitely that the ships had not violated the agreement, the government said. The eleventh ship, S. S. Marklyn, was trading with the Nationalists and the twelfth ship, the S. S. Orange, was registered as French.

The British government further instructed Hodgson to inform Franco that all British ships mentioned carried non-intervention observers.

SNELL STEPS OUT OF G. O. P. LINEUP

WASHINGTON, June 28—(UP)—House Republican leader Bertrand H. Snell, last of the boom-time G. O. P. congressional commanders, waived himself out of congress today in a maneuver which may test, in selection of his successor, the comparative strength of liberal and conservative trends in his party.

Snell, 24 years a member of the house and leader of the Republican minority since 1931, announced that he would not be a candidate for reelection this year in his up-state New York constituency. He was one of a political Tinkers-to-Evers-to-Chance combination which was almost all-powerful in the house during some of the brighter Republican years on Capitol Hill.

Executives Meet

His announcement coincided with a meeting here of the executive committee of the Republican National committee. With 13 of 21 members present, the committee unanimously endorsed the strategy and activity of Chairman John D. M. Hamilton, whose administration of committee affairs has been under fire on several political and newspaper fronts since the 1936 election. Hamilton said that indorsement would be the only reply to the demand of Rep. Hamilton Fish, R., N. Y., that the chairmanship be declared vacant.

But the chairman denied that he or the committee was interfering in the conduct of the Republican congressional campaign committee, or that national committee costs were excessive. He estimated the 1938 committee budget at from $150,000 to $200,000 and (Continued on Page Two)

Seized by Bandits

AFTER abducting four persons in Indiana and Illinois and critically wounding an Indiana police officer, two Midwest desperadoes were halted near Kankakee, Ill., when a police posse shot and killed one of them and wounded the other. Two of those abducted, Charles Hahn, 40, (below), and Joseph Kowalczyk, 45, deputy sheriffs, were seized at La Porte, Ind., and held for eight hours. They were released near Cook, Ind., near the Illinois-Indiana state line.

POLICEMAN DIES; FARM YOUTH, 25, FACES CHARGES

LAPORTE, Ind., June 28—(UP)—Prosecutor Norman Sallwasser said today he would petition for a special session of the grand jury and ask a first degree murder indictment against Orelle Easton, 25, survivor of two North Dakota bandit-brothers who killed an Indiana state policeman Sunday night.

Sallwasser said he would ask Circuit Judge Wort Worden today to call the jury into session. He said an effort would be made to extradite Easton from Kankakee, Ill., on a lesser charge pending action by the jury.

The Easton boys, Orelle and his brother, Clarence, 27, left their Valley City, N. D., home three weeks ago seeking through robbery the riches they saw no hope of obtaining from a drought-ridden farm.

HEISE CHARGES GIRL MOTORIST WITH VIOLATION

Three motorists were scheduled to report before B. T. Hedges Tuesday for traffic violations.

NEW BUILDING REQUIRED

Pickaway County District Plans Hearing

Boards of education of three school districts of Pickaway, Ross and Hocking counties met Monday evening in the community hall in Laurelville to discuss the possibilities of consolidating high schools of the districts.

Boards included were of the Adelphi-Harrison district of Ross county, Laurelville district of Hocking county, and Saltcreek township district of Pickaway county. Superintendents of schools of the three counties and Dick Smith, assistant director of education, attended the meeting which was called by the Laurelville board.

The plan under consideration is the consolidation of the three high schools and the erection of a new school in Saltcreek township at the intersection of Route 56 and the road extending from Route 53 to Adelphi.

Enrollments Low All three schools involved have low high school enrollment. During the last school term Saltcreek had 59 pupils, Adelphi 66, and Laurelville, 77.

George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway county schools, said the plan is still in a preliminary stage. If it is approved a building costing probably $150,000 (Continued on Page Two)

NEW ORLEANS, June 28—(UP)—U. S. Circuit Judge Rufus E. Foster today ordered Mayor Robert S. Maestri and Acting Superintendent of Police John J. Groch to show cause July 1 why they should not be restrained from interfering with the C. I. O.'s organizing and picketing activities in New Orleans.

COMEDY IN BAKERY ENDS IN CHILLICOTHE'S JAIL

Walter Pickel, Circleville, was fined $25 and costs and given 30 days in jail by Mayor Harold Brown, Chillicothe, Monday, on a charge of destruction of property. Charles Hastings, Chillicothe, was fined $50 and costs and given 30 days on a similar charge.

Police said the men were intoxicated and started some comedy in the bakery of Ernest Sexton, operator of the Gold Medal Bakery. The men amused themselves for a time by throwing slices of bread in the electric fan. They then dumped some flour and created a miniature dust storm. Later they mixed up large quantities of flour, lard and sugar. An apron was thrown in a vat of fat for "seasoning." Pickel's eyebrows were singed when he threw a match in a gas oven that had been turned on.

CAMPAIGN FUND COLLECTION HIT IN INDICTMENTS

Duffy Hints More Persons To Be Named; Early Hearings Asked

(Continued from Page One) of the seven, urging that the court postpone its summer recess in order to hear the cases. It was reported that the legality of the special grand jury would be challenged on the ground that it has been in session more than one term of court.

If ruled illegally, the grand jury could submit information on alleged violations of the law to the county prosecuting attorney for action.

Earhart and Wilson themselves are under classified civil service.

The grand jury investigation of charges that state civil service employees were victims of a "shake-down" for five percent of their annual salaries as campaign contributions resulted from a complaint filed with the attorney general by Francis C. Hooper, $130-a-month clerk in the State Tax Commission office. His affidavit charged he had been solicited for $78.60 by Earhart.

Conviction for violation of civil service laws carries automatic removal from office, a fine of $50 to $500, or a maximum of 180 days in prison, or a combination of these.

Gov. Davey Silent

Gov. Davey, in Cleveland, declined to comment on the indictments. He and other state officials had contended previously that contributions were not solicited from civil service workers.

Dye said the indictments did not "amount to a tinker's dam" and denied that he had solicited or accepted contributions illegally.

Frank Schroer, manager of state liquor stores in Cincinnati, was indicted recently on charges of soliciting money from civil service employees but was acquitted when the trial judge found there was no "willful" violation of the law.

Salt Creek is scheduling a public hearing for July 12 at the school to submit the plan to residents of the district to learn opinions. Similar meetings will be held in the other districts. The three boards of education will meet in Adelphi on July 14 to report the attitudes of residents on the district on the problem.

Due to the small enrollment in Salt Creek township the school for a time was removed from the first grade high school list. It was replaced this Spring on the approved list for two years.

The proposed plan is the first to consolidate a Pickaway county school district with other districts. Mr. McDowell said, and would probably be the only tri-county consolidation in the state. The consolidation is not in conformity with a plan suggested about a year ago. At that time it was recommended that Salt Creek school be consolidated with Pickaway township.

Addition Refused

Laureville had planned an addition to its school but the plan was not approved by the state department. The proposed plan for the consolidation then resulted.

LOTTERY SEEKS RELIEF MONEY

Cleveland Mayor Signs Resolution Providing "Entertainment"

CLEVELAND, June 28—(UP)—A $5,000,000 lottery to raise relief money for Cleveland's hungry was possible today after legislation passed by city council and signed by Mayor Harold Burton.

The legislation was passed unanimously and without debate and authorized a committee of five to "hold an event, or events", in Public Hall, and limited the use of the money to the requirements of 60,000 relief clients who have received no regular food orders for more than two months.

Although Mayor Burton in signing the bill said that it was "just a resolution to hold entertainments in Public Hall and the stadium," Councilman John M. Novak, chairman of the committee, and Raymond J. Taylor, who jointly sponsored the ordinance, said that they would proceed with the original plan of a $5,000,000 lottery.

The plan, which would not be called a lottery to avoid conflict with state anti-lottery laws, would include the sale of $1 tickets to "shows" in the Public Hall or stadium. Door prizes would be given holders of lucky tickets, whether or not they were present.

The committee was to meet today to work out the details of the plan and determine its practicability.

Meanwhile, food orders were to be mailed this week for the first time since April 30, when city funds were dissipated. Funds were to be provided by the issuance of $337,000 in city notes in anticipation of 1939 sales tax collections.

After they had wounded Dixon, the brothers abducted two deputy sheriffs and held them captive for eight hours. Yesterday they fled into Illinois where, after they had abducted a farmer and his son and engaged in two shooting affrays with police, they were cornered in a field near Desmone, Ill.

Oreille Easton said he and his brother had talked "a long time" before they decided on a crime career.

tion with Heinrich Himmler, head of the secret police.

Buerckel also ordered a reorganization of the Austrian storm troops to eliminate the radical elements.

The general result was said to be that Buerckel had firmly suppressed radical and even mutinous elements among the Austrian Nazis, who wanted to profit from union with Germany, and has established a moderate, but strong policy.

In the face of a thousand conflicting rumors about what has been happening in Austria since Anschluss (union), the United Press conducted an exhaustive three-day canvass of reliable sources to establish the background of Nazi disgruntlement and Buerckel's method of dealing with it.

It showed that the dissatisfaction sprang from two main causes. The first was the resentment of Austrian Nazis against what they felt to be an over-large number of posts given to non-Austrians and the second, rivalry and squabbles among Austrian Nazis themselves for party and government posts.

DAKOTA CASTS VOTES IN NYE, LANGER FIGHT

Republicans To Decide On Nominee With Large Ballot Expected

MANY CHARGES HURLED

Governor Claims Senator Seeking Limelight

BISMARCK, N. D., June 28—(UP)—Republican voters balloting today to determine whether Senator Gerald D. Nye or Governor William Langer should be their candidate for the senate next fall. A close race appeared certain. Their charges and counter-charges have colored an otherwise quiet primary campaign. Nominations at stake were for senator, two congressional seats, Governor, and a full slate of state officers in three parties—Republican, Democratic and Union. Interest centered, however, on the contest between Nye and Langer. Party leaders estimated that the vote in all primaries would total at least 200,000. The polls opened at 7 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m. The Nye-Langer struggle has typified the inner strife in the powerful Non-Partisan league, which has controlled the state government since 1932. Langer is the endorsee of the Non-Partisan league, which he had held under his political thumb for some time.

For Townsend
During his gubernatorial term, he has built up a strong political organization. He is a supporter of the Townsend plan, of money reform, and of a Bank of the United States. He was the first governor to declare a debt moratorium. Nye, in his most intensive campaign since his appointment to the senate in 1925, has concentrated against what he labeled "Langerism." He said he was "tired of trying to convince departments and agencies in Washington that the voice of one man is not the voice of North Dakota." Langer has charged Nye with making a "racket out of peace" and with spending his time to attract national interest to himself rather than aiding his state. The governor said that if he is elected senator he will devote his time to "getting federal aid for North Dakota, good roads, and fighting for the Missouri river diversion project." If necessary to get these things and adequate federal relief, he said, he will out-Huey Huey Long.

Democratic endorsement for the senatorial nomination is J. J. Nygaard of Jamestown. He is opposed by Halvor L. Halvorson, Minot, and E. A. Johansson, Raub, B. F. Woodall, Solen, is the union party senatorial candidate.

Last Survivors of Civil War Who Can Make It Head for Blue and Gray Reunion at Gettysburg

President Roosevelt to Address 4,000 Union and Confederate Veterans in Peaceful Gathering Where Some of Them Clashed 75 Years Ago

Eternal Light Peace memorial to be dedicated at Gettysburg battle-field by President Roosevelt, Sunday, July 3.

The encampment of the Blue and Gray reunion at Gettysburg.

All is now peaceful at Gettysburg, Pa., where Union and Confederate troops were locked in a death struggle 75 years ago. One of the many monuments that dot the battlefield is in foreground.

North and South... mellowed by the years.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 28—There is a strange stirring today among the aged veterans of the Civil war. For the last surviving veterans of the Civil war are gathering in a Blue and Gray reunion to write colorful and final chapter to an historic epoch in the nation's annals. From June 29 to July 6, they will convene where they fought a decisive battle 75 years ago. Some 4,000 veterans, of the 8,000 surviving Union and Confederate soldiers are expected to be present. The remaining 4,000 are unable to attend because of the infirmities of age. Roosevelt to Attend Each veteran is bringing an attendant and the transportation and upkeep of both is being paid by the government. On July 3 President Roosevelt will pay them honor when he dedicates a peace memorial topped with an eternal flame on Gettysburg battlefield. To the veterans the reunion marks a high tide in a long and eventful life, for death to all of them is but a few years removed. In the past 15 months one-third their number have died and by the end of 1940, it is estimated that merely a few veterans will be left of the 2,000,000 who fought in the war between the North and South. So their dimming eyes looked longingly today toward the green fields of Gettysburg where some of them fought in the turning point of the war on July 1-2-3, 1863, yearning to meet for a last time both friend and foe alike, to discuss with aging voices the stirring events which have now passed into history. To all of them the Pennsylvania State commission, which is supervising the joint reunion and the erection of the peace memorial, sent an invitation and a query as to whether they would be present. Their answers, bridging the centuries, add another chapter to the history of the Civil war.

In a Wheelbarrow!
"I'll be there if I have to come in a wheelbarrow," wrote one aging veteran. "I'll be there if I'm living at that date," wrote Samuel L. Tumbleson, former Confederate soldier, of Montague, Tex. Wrote Sylvester D. Mosher, Oakland, Mich., who fought with Company A, 13th N. Y. Artillery: "I do not need an attendant any more than a cat needs two tails. I want to take my wife with me instead of an attendant." From Ferdinand J. Jackson, of Tippecanoe, Ind.: "I can't tell what may happen to me before June 29, but if I live and am able I want to come." Jerome Kendall, Millport, N. Y. "Am 96 years old and in the best of health for this age. Am out and around every day doing light work around the house and feeling fine." Joseph W. Paul, Pike Road, N. C. "I have attended several Confederate reunions and have looked forward to a joint reunion where the remaining few of us might meet in friendship and peace. However, I am blind..."

One of Few Left
W. H. L. Wells, Plano, Tex.: "I served four years in the Confederate army and was in the battle of Gettysburg. I was in Pickett's Division. I'm now nearly 98 years of age." Of the 15,000 men who made Pickett's charge across the open terrain in the face of over 100 Union guns, 12,000 were lost. James M. Givens, Pembroke, Va., 90 years old, one of five brothers who fought in the war: "I had four brothers in the war and three were killed in battle." William E. Watson, Bristol, Okla., Confederate soldier: "I am now 91 years and 5 months old. My son who will accompany me is nearly 65 years old. He and I served together in the Spanish-American war." John Arbuckle, Columbus, O., who served with Sherman's army: "The Confederates will desire to march under their Civil war flag, but it should be on the staff under the Stars and Stripes." Both the Stars and Stripes and Stars and Bars will receive equal recognition at the celebration. Henry Mack, Minneapolis, Minn., Union soldier: "I attended the G. A. R. encampment in Washington, D. C. in 1936. Am 100 years old. Am in perfect health." Mack will celebrate his 101st birthday at the reunion, on July 4. Thomas Franklin Dornblaser, Chicago, who served under Rosecrans, Sherman and Thomas: "I was a commissary sergeant in Co. E, 7th Pennsylvania Cavalry. I was in the battle of Stonewall and Chickamauga, Atlanta campaign and Wilson raid, in Alabama and Georgia. Was twice wounded and had three horses shot under me. Am 97 years of age. Am thankful for good health." And from Francis Lincoln Mullin, Westminster, Md.: "I am in good health at the present and if I keep my good health I will attend. But if I should be absent, you will know the reason."

DOUBLE DANGER
POLICE authorities in various cities are preparing for what they expect to be one of the worst Fourth's in years. They expect it to be worse than usual because the Fourth comes on Monday and there are virtually two holidays.
Most of the serious accidents on such holidays have been found to occur on the highway, so police are urging people to stay at home as much as possible. But plenty of fatalities and casualties occur, too, around the home and on the street, from the use of fireworks, toy pistols and so on. Hundreds of cities have local laws prohibiting dangerous fireworks, except in the hands of responsible people for public display; but there are plenty of bootleggers, and it is usually possible to buy the dangerous stuff just beyond the edge of town.
Some toy pistols are said to be reasonably safe, while others are dangerous, and police in some places are said to be trying to discriminate, permitting use of the safe ones. This is really a job for parents, but it is astonishing how many parents seem to feel no responsibility about the matter and then are surprised and shocked when their children have their hands lacerated.
Such lacerations, as well-informed people should know, makes breeding places for the deadly tetanus germs and invite lockjaw. Better play safe, law or no law, and permit fireworks only in the hands of responsible grown-ups.

SOLDIER ROAD-MAKERS
THE government of Ecuador has just reduced the period of compulsory military service from one year to eleven months. The young men released are to spend that twelfth month working on national highways and irrigation projects. They will be under the direction of the Minister of Public Works instead of Army authorities.
It sounds like a useful arrangement. Military training for soldiers is an essential part of military preparedness, of course, but it can be overdone to the neglect of other matters equally important to a nation.
A month less of soldiering for young conscripts all over the world might make an amazing difference in the world outlook if the month were spent in planting, harvesting, building or making something useful, according to the place, climate and season.
While we're engaged in imagining pleasant things, there is no harm in carrying it a little farther and dreaming of the tremendous results that would follow if the month were increased gradually until fully half the year were devoted to constructive activity and only half to the military training.

World At A Glance —By— Charles P. Stewart

Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas is conspicuously a conscientious statesman.
Of course all our lawmakers are conscientious, but not all of them are conspicuously so. The Texan is so exceedingly conscientious as to be, sometimes a trifle troublesome to certain of his associates.
For example, he annoyed several of them by his unwillingness to direct an investigation of possible future charges of relief-in-politics, in connection with pending congressional primaries and next November's election. In fact, such charges are not altogether in the future. They are being made already.
KIND OF COMMITTEE
The allegation (as we all know) is that the New Deal administration, having control of relief funds, is so utilizing them as to promote the chances of its own friendly candidates, to the corresponding disadvantage of less friendly ones.
That was a matter that the anti-New Dealers wanted investigated, as the campaign wages along, with a view to a scandal, if any, after election day.
Naturally the New Dealers desire no post-election scandal—if they win the election. However, they have been convinced, all along, that an anti-New Deal investigation committee would do its best to provide one.
Hence their objection to that kind of a committee.
PAST COMMITTEES
Now, there is, as a regular thing, a senate committee to investigate senatorial campaign expenditures in election years.
The idea is to guard against bribery or near-bribery.
In recent years committees of this sort put the skids under Frank Smith in Illinois and William S. Vare in Pennsylvania.
According to their respective home state returns Smith and Vare appeared to have been elected to the senate, but their investigating committees found that it was done irregularly. So the senate barred them.
SHEPPARD'S TASK
This year's investigating committee is headed by Senator Sheppard.
It was proposed, by Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, with nine senatorial backers, that a separate committee be created to investigate relief-in-politics. Others said, "No, the usual campaign expenditures committee is sufficient."
Tydings, et al, insisted that miscellaneous chicanery and relief-in-politics are distinct propositions, calling for different investigations.
"HOT SPOT"
One readily can understand why Senator Sheppard preferred not to be involved in a twin inquiry. The senator is a dead-honest old man.
He believed in prohibition—but let that pass. He meant well. At the present juncture he is a New Dealer (not a violent one, but moderate), asked to adjudicate between "pro" and "anti" New Dealerish voting.
He is on a "hot spot". Conscience versus the obvious!
RELUCTANTLY ACCEPTS
The senate wished the whole investigation upon his committee, regardless.
He reluctantly accepted it. He has GOT to do a good job—conscientiously.
Whether or not he can do it—as mapped out to him—is a problem.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round
BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.
P. W. A. HAS BLACKLIST
WASHINGTON—With the Public Works Administration in full swing again the old game of chiseling in on government contracts has started.
It is not supposed to be known, but P. W. A. has a blacklist of contractors, architects, and others who have chiseled the Government, and once they are on the list they cannot get another contract.
This list is the result of the fact that it is difficult for the Federal Government to punish P. W. A. contractors once the contract has been let, for the reason that in most cases the contract is signed between the contractor and a municipal or state government.
If P. W. A. discovers chiseling, however, it can refuse payments. That it does, for instance, when an architect charges an 8 percent instead of a 6 percent fee. If the local community wants to pay the larger fee, it has to do so out of its own funds.
Before a company is put on the blacklist it is permitted a complete hearing. But unless it can clear itself, the company can get no more P. W. A. contracts, even when let through local governments.

BLUSHING BRIDEGROOM
Washington newsmen, who after five years experience have learned to expect the unexpected from Secretary Harold Ickes, have discovered something new about him. He can—and does—blush.
They made the discovery at his first press conference after returning from the European honeymoon. Ickes was a few minutes late and as he stepped into his office, the large gathering of reporters rose and applauded, while several of them whistled "Here Comes the Bride".
Ickes grinned broadly and then blushed a deep red.
His customary aplomb returned quickly, however. After the photographers had exploded flashlight bulbs in his face for nearly ten minutes, he finally broke out, "Ye gods, I thought all the bulbs in the country had been used up on me in the last few days. You boys had better quit now; I don't want to monopolize the picture business."
"But, Mr. Secretary," called out a reporter, "you ought to encourage consumption. Isn't that part of the spending program?"
Ickes grinned broadly and then blushed a deep red.

McNUTT FOR SENATOR
Don't be surprised if Philippine High Commissioner Paul McNutt suddenly pops up in Indiana as the Democratic candidate against anti-New Deal Senator Fred Van Nuys.
Some of his close friends are urging him to get into the race. One of them has been burning up the cables with this advice.
When McNutt was in the U. S. last winter his political master minds were against his going into the Senate, on the theory that a term there might blight instead of boost his presidential ambitions. But some of them now feel differently.
They think it would be good strategy for him to be in Washington. It would give him a chance to strengthen his labor record, one of his weak spots, and also provide him with a forum to keep actively in the public eye.

DIET AND HEALTH

Here Is Diet Now Used in Disease of Kidneys
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
SUMMER MONTHS are good ones for the kidney invalid because the skin takes the burden off the kidneys to a certain extent. Some forms of kidney disease have been cured by going to a desert climate such as New Mexico or Arizona or to Egypt. Summer climate in the United States closely approximates Egypt, so the nephritic may feel more comfortable at this time.
In the dietetic treatment of kidney disease, the principal considerations are to control the intake of salt, fluid and protein. In some cases the kidney cannot excrete salt or water and dropsy results, and in some cases there is a disturbance of protein nutrition. When the kidney is unable to excrete nitrogen it is natural that we should cut down the nitrogenous foods in the diet. This means very largely the protein foods, such as meat, eggs, etc.
Nowadays the salt-free diet, in which no salt whatever is used, is thought to be excessively rigorous and is substituted by a salt-poor diet. It is almost impossible to make up a diet which excludes salt entirely.
Diet in Severe Phase
In the early phase of treatment of severe nephritis a diet as follows is used, which is as near dry, salt-free and protein-free as is safe to give:
BREAKFAST: One-half slice toast, one serving fruit, one teaspoon sugar.
LUNCHEON: One-half slice toast, two-thirds cup cream soup, one-half square butter.
DINNER: One-half slice toast, one glass milk, one pat butter, one egg.
Later a diet such as follows can be used:
Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

CHAPTER 44
SOME PEOPLE, it has been proven, can dance steadily right on through an afternoon and night and still be going strong next morning. Bill Baron couldn't say just how many of Ellen's guests had done that, but shortly after dawn on Saturday he noted that the fiesta was still under way. He himself had slept for five hours.
"People kept coming all night, Doc," one of the cowboys informed him. "Much viva la musica, ain't it?"
"You said it," Bill yawned. "Ought to be sure 'nough fun tonight."
Many others were sleeping, however, and breakfasts were being eaten at all hours, even to past noon. Men who were up during the morning engaged in impromptu rodeo stunts, mostly bucking horse riding. Ellen came out and spent an hour with them—to the men's delight. When she stayed on a buck herself for the allotted 10 seconds, the men waved their hats and cheered so loudly that everybody came out of the house to see what caused the excitement.
Three or four fellows had become obnoxious and intoxicated and Bill escorted them off the premises. A couple of lads took to fists over a girl, and the others present made them scrap it out in a makeshift boxing ring. That totaled all the trouble for the first 24 hours.
Ellen sought out Bill at about four that afternoon.
"I'm worried about food," she admitted. "Do you suppose there'll be enough for everybody? For tonight and maybe breakfast too?"
Bill pushed back his huge cowboy hat, and surveyed the various groups of carefree people.
"I think so," he drawled. "But I'll check up and be sure, Ellen."
He went then to the main storehouse of the rancho, a flat adobe structure which had been built 50 yards or so back of Ellen's home. It was a catch-all, to house all manner of things such as an extra barrel of flour, barrel of sugar, cans of coffee, slabs of cured bacon and hams, rolls of barbed wire for fencing, tools, all the assorted and valuable things needed in running a ranch except the saddles and harness which were kept near the corals. Bill noted an abundance of kitchen supplies; then while probing around he made another discovery.
"Be doggoned!" he murmured, to himself, curious.
More than 20 rifles had been placed on the floor back in a dark corner behind some stacks of boxes, and covered with empty bags.
He examined the guns. All were loaded. He concluded that some of the guests had put them there for safe keeping, not wishing to appear at a party with such arms, but expecting to go on a hunting trip later. He re-covered them and dismissed the matter from his mind.
This storage room was a long one, and in the other end Bill had put some sacks of especially prepared calf feed used in his feeding tests. The sacks were stacked ceiling high. Because a window behind them afforded light, and because a little nook of privacy was made there by the sacks, he sat down to rest and think a bit. He wanted this moment, alone, to check over all fiesta details in his mind, and on his pocket notebook. Privacy was impossible outside.
He had sat there 10 minutes when his thoughts drifted to personal things. Sid Bromberg wanted him to go to Hollywood. The money offer had been a big one. Even if he didn't make good, the one six months' contract would feel like a fool in Hollywood, money or no. His life was on the open range. He had been born and reared there, and except for college in Houston, Tex., he had stayed there.
A man had best stick with what he knows. And loves. But Bill wanted money. He needed it so he could court the girl he loved. He had forced himself to play hands-off with Ellen Dale because he lacked money. He had kidded her some but he had not proposed to her seriously ever. He wanted to, but he couldn't tie her down. She had remained free to take her own choice anywhere, even though he felt she truly liked him. This money from Bromberg could give him a chance.

His thoughts ran in this vein when voices interrupted him. Two men had come in the door. Automatically he peered between two of the sacks—then restrained his impulse to greet them.
Both men apparently were fiesta guests. But recognition of one caused Bill instant alarm.
"Why that's—that's the man who smuggled me out of Mexico!" he told himself, incredulous.
He kept still, listening. The men went to the concealed pile of rifles. They spoke in guarded tones.
"They are here," one man told the other, in Spanish. "And in this can labeled kerosene is the cocaine."
"Good!" approved the other. "But watch your tongue. Now how many men are here?"
"Forty-three, so far. There will be others. A few we can trust to have rifles. But here are enough rifles for ourselves, anyway. All are loaded. We must not stay here long now. There are many empty feed sacks around. Tonight we can take rifles rolled in a sack to each car. No one will suspect."
"Right. But let's get out of here."
They left the building, and Bill Baron sat trying to digest what he had overheard. The dialogue had amazed him, as had discovery of the smuggler. He found his pulse beating fast so excited was he now.
He left his seat, though, and came cautiously around the stacks of feed bags. He thought it best to stay inside for several minutes. He peered through a corner of a window. It commanded a view of Ellen's kitchen and back yard, an unfenced area where Mexican cooks and other servants were at work. People were milling around everywhere. Bill studied faces intently at long range.
Presently he slipped out, moving casually, and began to circulate among the guests. He had a smile and greeting for everyone. He found the smuggler with one group

CONTRACT BRIDGE

ENTRIES NOT NEEDED

WHEN YOU can see that a simple finesse would set up the dummy's suit, even if your partner had the king, what is the use of trying to knock a side entry out of the dummy? You would only waste opportunity by doing so. The declarer could win the trick, drop the rest of the trumps and then sail on with the long suit. In a spot like this, your sole chance is to whack at the one remaining suit, in the hope that your partner can get the setting tricks there.

North opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Diamond, East passed and South called 2-Clubs. West put in a bid of 2-Spades and North and East passed. When South continued the bidding with 4-Clubs,

North went to 4-Diamonds and South to 5-Clubs.

Against this contract, West led the club 3, which East won with the A. Having heard that the important thing to do with a long suit in dummy was to knock out the entry, he failed to realize that he had a more important mission in this particular case. His partner had put in an overcall and as he didn't have the A or Q of the suit, wasn't it likely that he held some strength in hearts? Had he shifted to that suit, instead of attacking spades, the contract would have been immediately set one.

After the lead of the spade 9, against South's 3-No Trumps contract, what is his best play to make the contract?

MILLER CLOUTS BALL TO HELP KASEY OUTFIT

COLUMBUS, June 28—(UP)—Cut adrift from the Cincinnati Reds' farm system because of weaknesses at the plate, Eddie Miller, 21-year-old shortstop of the Kansas City Blues, today appeared to be one of the most valuable players who will be thrown on the market at the close of the current American Association season.

Cincinnati took several looks at the fleet and fancy fielding Miller and then repeatedly sent him back to some minor league affiliate. His .242 batting average at Toronto in 1936 and his .233 average of last season at Syracuse finally caused the Redleg bosses to abandon hope for him.

Sent to Kansas City this Spring, Miller suddenly became a hitter. He has been among the leading 10 batsmen from the start of the campaign and now owns a healthy .330 average.

The flashy young shortstop proved his worth again last night as his potent bat paced Kansas City to an 8 to 2 triumph over Minneapolis in a 10 inning battle.

With the Blues behind 2 to 1 going into the ninth Miller slammed out a home run to knot the count. In the 10th he came up again, this time with the bases loaded and hit another circuit drive to clinch the decision.

The victory of Kansas City coupled with losses by Indianapolis and St. Paul tightened the Association pennant race. Although in third place Kansas City now trails the leading Indianapolis club by only one game.

Indianapolis was beaten 2 to 1 by Columbus last night and St. Paul fell before Milwaukee 12 to 9. In the other game Toledo outslugged Louisville to win 9 to 5.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Rollicking Rollie Hemsey, who had a perfect day at bat with three singles and a double, to help his battery mate Bob Feller score his ninth victory for Cleveland.

FELLER PITCHES NINTH MARGIN OVER RED SOX

CLEVELAND, June 28—(UP)—Bob Feller, the husky youngster who skyrocketed from an Iowa farm to a place among the diamond's celebrities through the medium of a blazing fast ball, again today demonstrated his greatness by turning in his ninth triumph of the season.

Feller, giving one of his best performances of the year, hurled the Cleveland Indians to a 7 to 3 victory over the Boston Red Sox yesterday. The win enabled the Tribe to increase its league lead to four full games over the idle New York Yankees.

Feller had his fast ball literally smoking yesterday and he sent 10 of the Red Sox batsmen down on strikes. The performance increased the schoolboy's strikeout total for the season to 85, a mark that is topped by only one other American league hurler, "Buck" Newsom of the St. Louis Browns.

The 19-year-old right-hander struck out at least one man in every inning, but the seventh. He got the dangerous "Pinky" Riggins, who recently set an American league record by slamming out 12 consecutive hits. Gene Desautels and "Lefty" Grove twice each. Jimmy Fox, Joe Cronin, Ben Chapman and pinch hitter Leo Nonnenkamp were fanned once.

Feller was still wild in spots, but not wild enough to ruin a great pitching performance. He passed four men in the first three innings and then went until the eighth before he walked another. His total was seven.

JOHNNY TO FACE BAUERS IN GAME WITH PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 28—(UP)—Johnny Vander Meer, the major league's outstanding rookie for 1938, was to go after his ninth consecutive victory here today as the Cincinnati Reds opened a series with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Russ Bauers was to oppose him.

Vander Meer has lost only two games this season and one of those was to the Pirates. On the first stop of the season here the young southpaw was knocked out of the box in the third inning as Pittsburgh pushed across four runs. Since that date Vander Meer has started 10 contests and went the route in eight of them.

The Reds face the necessity of winning here or falling back in the pennant chase. Pittsburgh is in fourth place, but only one full game to the rear of Cincinnati, which is second in the standing.

ALLEN IS AFTER TENTH CONTEST WITHOUT LOSS

NEW YORK, June 28—(UP)—Johnny Allen, Cleveland's big right hander who won 15 straight last year and finished with the highest winning percentage in the history of the American league, already has spun another imposing string, and goes after his 10th consecutive today.

With his team riding a four-game lead, Allen, who lost only the last game of the season in 1937 for a winning average of .938, will work against the Detroit Tigers.

After losing the opening game of 1938 to the St. Louis Browns, Allen has beaten Detroit and New York twice each, bowled over the Philadelphia Athletics three times, and scored over Chicago and Washington once each.

Allen and young Bob Feller, who scored his ninth victory against two defeats yesterday, are two reasons why Oscar Vitt has been able to keep the heretofore erratic Indians at the top of the standings since May 19.

FIVE ENTRIES TO VIE IN WESTERN AMERICAN RACE

HOLLYWOOD PARK, Inglewood, Cal., June 28—(UP)—A five-horse field, one of the smallest ever named for such a rich event, was in prospect today for the $50,000-added American championship stake—Hollywood's version of the 1938 Kentucky Derby.

The entry of Lawrin and Dauber, first and second in the bluegrass classic, has frightened away virtually all opposition for tomorrow's race. Only three challenging three-year-olds have accepted the issue—Raoul Walsh's French importation, Mount Vernon; Major Austin C. Taylor's Tanforan three-year-old champion, Fire Marshall; and Cleveland Putnam's Wing and Wing.

The track will permit six starters and there still is room for one more horse. If there is any shift in the line-up, however, the field probably will be made smaller instead of larger. The first two positions have been conceded by the experts to Lawrin and Dauber, and any other contests will be strictly for show money.

NAVY VICTORY IN ROWING RACE HAILED FINEST

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 28—(UP)—This old river town, which has seen the best of them come and go, still applauded today the greatest triumph in the history of the Poughkeepsie rowing regatta—a record-smashing varsity victory by an inspired Navy crew which refused to be beaten.

The experts had said it was "in the bag" for the West again; that the East couldn't hope to send a crew home in front and shatter the monopoly which California and Washington have shared on the four-mile event down the Hudson river.

But the gallant sailors, who were second to Washington last year, didn't believe it. They had to win because they had promised their coach, Charles (Buck) Walsh who lay in Vassar hospital with a severe spinal injury, that they would.

FIGHTER, 17, DIES

CHICAGO, June 28—(UP)—The coroner's office began an investigation today into the death last night of Peter Gribari, 17, who failed to recover from a knockout blow received in an amateur boxing bout. He was fighting Raymond Maher, 16, when he was knocked unconscious near the end of their third round bout. He had won the first two rounds.

W. P. A. APPROVES PROJECT TO IMPROVE 55 MILES OF ROADS

$322,743 COST EXPECTED FOR HUGE PROGRAM

Officials To Paint Many Bridges; Curbs, Gutters Planned In Villages

Approval of the project for the improvement of at least 55 miles of county and township roads under W. P. A. was announced Tuesday by Congressman Harold Claypool of Chillicothe. The approval was made by President Roosevelt.

This project was prepared as a second supplement to the county road program under W. P. A. It totals $322,743, including the federal share of $262,781, and the sponsor's, the county and townships, $59,962. Federal labor on the project amounts to $240,743, materials $19,658 and other costs $2,380. The project would provide work for 400 men for one year. The share of the sponsors' includes materials, equipment and engineering costs.

The work schedules for the roads will be prepared as needed. County officials hope to paint about 20 ridges and they may build curbs and gutters in villages.

Road improvements under the project include grading, widening, surfacing, extending drainage lines and structures, improving creek channels by changing alignment, riprapping, constructing berms and other incidental work.

'PHANTOM' HELD IN PIKE COUNTY AFTER CAPTURE

CHILLICOTHE, June 28—George Lytle, 19, of Moffettsville, Tenn., who has been sought for the last two weeks as Chillicothe's "Black Phantom," was in the Waverly jail Tuesday.

The man was captured by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Foster along Hutton Run, Pike county, Sunday. Despite a bullet wound in his leg, Lytle showed fight when overtaken by Deputy Foster. By feigning death he almost succeeded in snatching the officer's gun as the officer bent over him.

Lytle escaped from Chillicothe police on June 10. He said he had "rambled" through the hills, living off berries and whatever else he could obtain. A posse had started out in search for him determined to put an end to a series of food thefts from farm houses in the Owl Creek section of Pike county.

Barbara, Husband Ready To File Divorce Suit

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, June 28.—(UP)—Attorneys for Countess Barbara Haugwitz-Reventlow have taken steps preliminary to filing suit for separation and divorce from Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, it was learned today.

The ministry of justice said that a lawyer for the Countess, the former Barbara Hutton, $40,000,000 five and ten cent store heiress, had submitted a formal inquiry whether the Danish courts could deal with proceedings for a separation or divorce.

The lawyer was told, it was said, that the Danish courts must handle the entire matter because both the Countess and her husband were Danish subjects.

Also, it was said, ministry of justice experts decided that if divorce proceedings were eventually instituted, they must be heard by the city courts of Copenhagen.

Countess Barbara last December renounced her American citizenship for the Danish nationality of her husband.

It was understood that lawyers for both the Countess and the Count had conferred with ministry of justice officials, but the initial action came from the Countess's side.

Both Must Appear

It would be necessary for the Count and Countess to come to Copenhagen for the initial arguments but they would not have to remain here.

The first step would be a suit for separation. The courts, if they approved the plea—probably by the Countess—would name a period of perhaps a year, at the judge's discretion, during which there would be a judicial separation.

At the end of whatever separation period the judge named, a suit for divorce could be filed. Possibly little news of the events leading to disagreement between the Countess and her husband would become public if suit were brought here. Either party to a separation or divorce action may ask for absolute secrecy. If such a request was made, the hearings would be held in secret and Danish newspapers would be permitted to mention only that the courts had started to consider the case and the final decision handed down. Violation of a court order for secrecy is punishable by fine or imprisonment and editors of offending newspapers are held responsible.

Efforts Have Failed

Most people believe that the Count and Countess would reach a friendly agreement regarding any suit. However, it was reported today that efforts so far to settle the dispute amicably had failed.

INDIANA TAKES KILLER'S LIFE

Canadian, Reprieved For Week, Executed For Killing Deputy

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 28.—(UP)—Robert Shaw, 27-year-old ex-convict, was electrocuted early today at the state penitentiary for the murder of Henry Spice, a LaGrange county, Ind., deputy sheriff.

He was pronounced dead at 12:09 a. m. Only prison officials, physicians and the prison chaplain were present. Warden Alfred Dowd said Shaw went to his death without making a statement.

His execution had been set for midnight Thursday but was halted by a dramatic last minute reprieve, resulting from the intervention of Warren Dowd.

At that time Dowd said he was not certain that the death sentence imposed on a plea of guilty and without a jury trial was proper. He telephoned Gov. M. Clifford Townsend who granted a stay until today. Then Omer S. Jackson, Indiana attorney general, ruled that the conviction had been proper and the execution was rescheduled.

Yesterday Shaw lived his "last" day for the second time. He went through the same routine as he had on Thursday. He ate another "last" meal and read the Bible.

Shaw was born in Canada and was a British subject. He shot and killed Deputy Spice, Dec. 3, 1937, while being sought as a suspect in the robbery of a grocery store at Kendallville, Ind. He was captured the next day.

Cameraman "Shoots" Man Shooting at Him!

ONE of the rarest action pictures ever taken! Imagine taking a picture of a man firing at you with a pistol! That was the situation in which Howard Jones, Knoxville, Tenn., Journal cameraman, found himself as he "shot" pictures of Ed McNew, professional bondsman and politician, shortly after McNew had been arraigned in court on drunk driving charges. McNew didn't want his picture taken and whipped out his pistol, firing at Jones as the latter clicked his shutter. Luckily for Jones none of the four shots struck him. In the photo, snapped by Jones, shown at left, you can see McNew, with pistol leveled, firing at the courageous cameraman. He hit the telegraph pole.

WORK ON RURAL ELECTRIC LINES TO START SOON

Engineer Starts Work On Specifications; Staking Planned In 10 Days

Staking for rural electrification lines in Pickaway county will be started within the next week or 10 days.

W. R. Cutnaw of Columbus has been approved as engineer and has started preparation of plans and specifications for the Pickaway county project, which will be part of the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative.

Staking for the lines will be started at the location of the meter station about two miles East of Kingston. About 74 miles of lines, to serve about 300 homes, will be constructed in Pickaway county in Pickaway, Circleville, Washington, Saltcreek and Walnut townships.

Rights-of-Way Obtained
A large part of the renewing of rights-of-way for the line construction has been completed. Approximately 50 interested rural residents attended a meeting held Monday evening in the Pickaway township school. Primary purpose of the meeting was to obtain additional rights-of-way.

Many rights-of-way for the Pickaway county project were obtained about two years ago and dated for one year. Since the expiration date has passed it is necessary to renew them. Officials said funds for the project will be available as soon as the signing of rights-of-way is completed.

$233,000 Available

An allocation of $233,000 by the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington to the South Central Ohio group was made recently. The allocation covers lines in Fairfield, Perry and Pickaway counties.

CAMPAIGN FUND COLLECTION HIT IN INDICTMENTS

COURT FIGHT LOOMS

Legality Of Inquiry Faces Severe Attack

COLUMBUS, June 28—(UP)—Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy's special grand jury, which indicted seven high state officials on charges of soliciting or accepting contributions to Governor Martin L. Davey's campaign for re-nomination from civil service employees, was reported today to be preparing additional indictments.

Arraignment of the seven officials named in 13 indictments reported to Common Pleas Judge Charles A. Leach late Monday will be held some time this week after warrants are served. The grand jury, called originally to investigate Ohio's parole and pardon system last Winter, began its inquiry into campaign contributions on May 6 and called more than 400 witnesses.

Those indicted were: State Finance Director M. Ray Allison, two indictments; J. Freer Bittiger, former speaker of the Ohio house of representatives and now attached to the governor's office, one indictment;

Daniel S. Earhart, attorney examiner in the sales tax division and former congressman, one indictment;

Thomas E. Dye, assistant state purchasing agent and former state Democratic chairman, two indictments;

Charles O. Wilson, investigator in the gasoline tax division, three indictments;

Frank W. Mowery, manager of the state office building, three indictments;

J. L. Kennedy, superintendent of buildings in the public works department, one indictment.

SNELL STEPS OUT OF G. O. P. LINEUP

WASHINGTON, June 28—(UP)—House Republican leader Bertrand H. Snell, last of the boom-time G. O. P. congressional commanders, waived himself out of congress today in a maneuver which may test, in selection of his successor, the comparative strength of liberal and conservative trends in his party.

Snell, 24 years a member of the house and leader of the Republican minority since 1931, announced that he would not be a candidate for reelection this year in his up-state New York constituency. He was one of a political Tinkers-to-Evers-to-Chance combination which was almost all-powerful in the house during some of the brighter Republican years on Capitol Hill.

Executives Meet

His announcement coincided with a meeting here of the executive committee of the Republican National committee. With 13 of 21 members present, the committee unanimously endorsed the strategy and activity of Chairman John D. M. Hamilton, whose administration of committee affairs has been under fire on several political and newspaper fronts

BRITISH CLAIM FRANCO CHARGE WITHOUT BASIS

LONDON, June 28—(UP)—The British government took issue today with charges by Generalissimo Franco that British ships are trading with Loyalist Spain in violation of the non-intervention agreement.

Franco cited 12 alleged violations. The British government instructed its representative in Nationalist Spain, Sir Robert Hodgson to inform Franco that Britain and the non-intervention board had investigated the charges and found them without substantiation.

In ten cases it was shown definitely that the ships had not violated the agreement, the government said. The eleventh ship, S. S. Marklyn, was trading with the Nationalists and the twelfth ship, the S. S. Orange, was registered as French.

The British government further instructed Hodgson to inform Franco that all British ships mentioned carried non-intervention observers.

COUGH KILLS INFANT

URBANA, June 28—(UP)—Three-month-old Paul Melah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Melah, died of whooping cough at West Liberty yesterday.

William Parks, S. Scioto street, Circleville's lone Civil War veteran, will not be able to attend the Gettysburg celebration, opening Wednesday, because of poor health.

Mr. Parks, who has been in failing health for several months, had completed all arrangements to go to the scene of the great Civil War battle, but was forced to cancel his plans because of his health. He had received complimentary railroad tickets from the government for himself and a companion, who was to be his grandson, Boyce Parks, but they were returned. Mr. Parks was to leave Circleville on the Tuesday afternoon Norfolk & Western train, changing in Columbus to an eastbound carrier.

The Gettysburg celebration, more details about which appear on Page 3, is expected to attract a great number of veterans of the war between the states.

The Pickaway township board of education employed Miss Mary Alice Mark, Westerville, Route 3, to succeed Mrs. Ralph Spence, who resigned as eighth grade teacher.

Walnut township's board employed Winifred Rodebush, 53 W. Cooke avenue, Columbus, a graduate of Ohio State university this year, as instructor of vocal and instrumental music. Miss Rodebush replaces Miss Mary R. Tolbert, Pickaway township, who accepted a position at Worthington.

Miss Rodebush is now teaching for five weeks in the department of music of Ohio State university.

NAPOLÉON, June 28—(UP)—Mike Jurasek, 45, of Adrian, Mich., who shot his former wife and two other persons near New Bavaria, died in a Defiance hospital today of self-inflicted bullet wounds.

The shooting took place at the farm home of Charles Tomacheck. Jurasek went there with a shotgun in search of his divorced wife, Mary. He shot her as she ran from the house, then shot Tomacheck and his wife, Cecelia, before shooting himself.

Mrs. Jurasek was wounded in the left leg. Tomacheck in the arm, and Mrs. Tomacheck in the hips. All were expected to recover.

They were released near Cook, Ind., near the Illinois-Indiana state line.

POLICEMAN DIES; FARM YOUTH, 25, FACES CHARGES

LAPORTE, Ind., June 28—(UP)—Prosecutor Norman Sallwasser said today he would petition for a special session of the grand jury and ask a first degree murder indictment against Orelle Easton, 25, survivor of two North Dakota bandit-brothers who killed an Indiana state policeman Sunday night.

Sallwasser said he would ask Circuit Judge Wort Worden today to call the jury into session. He said an effort would be made to extradite Easton from Kankakee, Ill., on a lesser charge pending action by the jury.

The Easton boys, Orelle and his brother, Clarence, 27, left their Valley City, N. D., home three weeks ago seeking through robbery the riches they saw no hope of obtaining from a drought-ridden farm.

NEW BUILDING REQUIRED

Pickaway County District Plans Hearing

Boards of education of three school districts of Pickaway, Ross and Hocking counties met Monday evening in the community hall in Laurelville to discuss the possibilities of consolidating high schools of the districts.

Boards included were of the Adelphi-Harrison district of Ross county, Laurelville district of Hocking county, and Saltcreek township district of Pickaway county. Superintendents of schools of the three counties and Dick Smith, assistant director of education, attended the meeting which was called by the Laurelville board.

The plan under consideration is the consolidation of the three high schools and the erection of a new school in Saltcreek township at the intersection of Route 56 and the road extending from Route 53 to Adelphi.

Enrollments Low
All three schools involved have low high school enrollment. During the last school term Saltcreek had 59 pupils, Adelphi 66, and Laurelville, 77.

George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway county schools, said the plan is still in a preliminary stage. If it is approved a building costing probably $150,000 (Continued on Page Two) of the seven, urging that the court postpone its Summer recess in order to hear the cases. It was reported that the legality of the special grand jury would be challenged on the ground that it has been in session more than one term of court.

COMEDY IN BAKERY ENDS IN CHILLICOTHE'S JAIL

Walter Pickel, Circleville, was fined $25 and costs and given 30 days in jail by Mayor Harold Brown, Chillicothe, Monday, on a charge of destruction of property. Charles Hastings, Chillicothe, was fined $50 and costs and given 30 days on a similar charge.

Police said the men were intoxicated and started some comedy in the bakery of Ernest Sexton, operator of the Gold Medal Bakers. The men amused themselves for a time by throwing slices of bread in the electric fan. They then dumped some flour and created a miniature dust storm. Later they mixed up large quantities of flour, lard and sugar. An apron was thrown in a vat of fat for "seasoning." Pickel's eyebrows were singed when he threw a match in a gas oven that had been turned on.

If ruled illegally, the grand jury could submit information on alleged violations of the law to the county prosecuting attorney for action.

Earhart and Wilson themselves are under classified civil service.

The grand jury investigation of charges that state civil service employees were victims of a "shake-down" for five percent of their annual salaries as campaign contributions resulted from a complaint filed with the attorney general by Francis C. Hooper, $130-a-month clerk in the State Tax Commission office. His affidavit charged he had been solicited for $78.60 by Earhart.

Conviction for violation of civil service laws carries automatic removal from office, a fine of $50 to $500, or a maximum 181 sentence of six months, or both.

Gov. Davey Silent

Gov. Davey, in Cleveland, declined to comment on the indictments. He and other state officials had contended previously that contributions were not solicited from civil service workers.

Dye said the indictments did not "amount to a tinker's dam" and denied that he had solicited or accepted contributions illegally.

Frank Schroer, manager of state liquor stores in Cincinnati, was indicted recently on charges of soliciting money from civil service employees but was acquitted when the trial judge found there was no "willful" violation of the law.

PRINCETON, Fla., June 23—(UP)—James B. Cash, Sr., Princeton merchant, indicated today—a month from the day his five-year-old son Jimmy was kidnapped—he may ask to be allowed to pull the switch of the electric chair to carry out the death penalty imposed on the kidnaper-killer, Franklin Pierce McCall.

would be needed. Federal aid would be asked for the project.

Salt Creek is scheduling a public hearing for July 12 at the school to submit the plan to residents of the district to learn opinions. Similar meetings will be held in the other districts. The three boards of education will meet in Adelphi on July 14 to report the attitudes of residents on the district on the problem.

Due to the small enrollment in Salt Creek township the school for a time was removed from the first grade high school list. It was replaced this Spring on the approved list for two years.

The proposed plan is the first to consolidate a Pickaway county school district with other districts. Mr. McDowell said, and would probably be the only tri-county consolidation in the state. The consolidation is not in conformity with a plan suggested about a year ago. At that time it was recommended that Salt Creek school be consolidated with Pickaway township.

Laurelville had planned an addition to its school but the plan was not approved by the state department. The proposed plan for the consolidation then resulted.

said his organization merely was endeavoring to raise and turn over to the Republican congressional and senatorial campaign committees their 1938 budgets of $500,000 and $175,000, respectively.

C. B. Goodspeed, committee treasurer, denied Fish's criticisms of party financing and Hamilton denied that committee expenses were $1,000 a day. Nearer $500 he said. Goodspeed said that the committee collected $352,000 from Jan. 1 to May 31, remitted $167,000 to the contributing states for local use, paid $63,000 to the congressional committee and $15,000 to the senatorial committee, and spent $5,000 on the national committee.

Not Interfering
"We are not putting our hands on the congressional races," Hamilton insisted. "We merely are trying to raise the budgets which the congressional and senatorial committees themselves budgeted. We are in no way interfering with the spending of that money."

He predicted a gain of a minimum of 35 to 45 house seats in November and predicted that the biggest gains would come from Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and New York.

Hamilton said that Republicans would keenly feel Snell's retirement after a span of service embracing "several turbulent periods in our national history including the World War, the world wide depression of 1929-32 and the New Deal."

They became hungry while on the island, killed and cooked a crane. They had only a little canned food with them.

The boat had been entered in the Mills Trophy race on the lake.

LOTTERY SEEKS RELIEF MONEY

Cleveland Mayor Signs Resolution Providing "Entertainment"

CLEVELAND, June 23—(UP)—A $5,000,000 lottery to raise relief money for Cleveland's hungry was possible today after legislation passed by city council and signed by Mayor Harold Burton.

The legislation was passed unanimously and without debate and authorized a committee of five to "hold an event, or events," in Public Hall, and limited the use of the money to the requirements of 60,000 relief clients who have received no regular food orders for more than two months.

Although Mayor Burton in signing the bill said that it was "just a resolution to hold entertainments in Public Hall and the stadium," Councilmen John M. Novak, chairman of the committee, and Raymond J. Taylor, who jointly sponsored the ordinance, said that they would proceed with the original plan of a $5,000,000 lottery.

The plan, which would not be called a lottery to avoid conflict with state anti-lottery laws, would include the sale of $1 tickets to "shows" in the Public Hall or stadium. Door prizes would be given holders of lucky tickets, whether or not they were present.

The committee was to meet today to work out the details of the plan and determine its practicability.

Meanwhile, food orders were to be mailed this week for the first time since April 30, when city funds were dissipated. Funds were to be provided by the issuance of $337,000 in city notes in anticipation of 1939 sales tax collections.

lar but brief. Near LaPorte they fatally wounded State Policeman Ray Dixon, 28, when he sought to help them get their stalled automobile started. He died late yesterday at Holy Family hospital.

Kankakee police said Oreille had denied he had shot Dixon.

"I drove the car," they quoted him, "and my brother handled the guns."

After they had wounded Dixon, the brothers abducted two deputy sheriffs and held them captive for eight hours. Yesterday they fled into Illinois where, after they had abducted a farmer and his son and engaged in two shooting affrays with police, they were cornered in a field near Desmoe, Ill.

Oreille Easton said he and his brother had talked "a long time" before they decided on a crime career.

"We decided there was no money in farming," he said. "And we started out to hold up stores and filling stations, later to work up to banks."

Buerckel also ordered a reorganization of the Austrian storm troops to eliminate the radical elements.

The general result was said to be that Buerckel had firmly suppressed radical and even mutinous elements among the Austrian Nazis, who wanted to profit from union with Germany, and has established a moderate, but strong policy.

In the face of a thousand conflicting rumors about what has been happening in Austria since Anschluss (union), the United Press conducted an exhaustive three-day canvass of reliable sources to establish the background of Nazi disgruntlement and Buerckel's method of dealing with it.

It showed that the dissatisfaction sprang from two main causes. The first was the resentment of Austrian Nazis against what they felt to be an over-large number of posts given to non-Austrians and the second, rivalry and squabbles among Austrian Nazis themselves for party and government posts.

DAKOTA CASTS VOTES IN NYE, LANGER FIGHT

Republicans To Decide On Nominee With Large Ballot Expected

MANY CHARGES HURLED

Governor Claims Senator Seeking Limelight

BISMARCK, N. D., June 28—(UP)—Republican voters balloting today to determine whether Senator Gerald D. Nye or Governor William Langer should be their candidate for the senate next fall. A close race appeared certain. Their charges and counter-charges have colored an otherwise quiet primary campaign.

Nominations at stake were for senator, two congressional seats, Governor, and a full slate of state officers in three parties—Republican, Democratic and Union. Interest centered, however, on the contest between Nye and Langer.

Party leaders estimated that the vote in all primaries would total at least 200,000. The polls opened at 7 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m. The Nye-Langer struggle has typified the inner strife in the powerful Non-Partisan league, which has controlled the state government since 1932. Langer is the endorser of the Non-Partisan league, which he had held under his political thumb for some time.

For Townsend
During his gubernatorial term, he has built up a strong political organization. He is a supporter of the Townsend plan, of money reform, and of a Bank of the United States. He was the first governor to declare a debt moratorium.

Nye, in his most intensive campaign since his appointment to the senate in 1925, has concentrated against what he labeled "Langerism." He said he was "tired of trying to convince departments and agencies in Washington that the voice of one man is not the voice of North Dakota."

Langer has charged Nye with making a "racket out of peace" and with spending his time to attract national interest to himself rather than aiding his state.

The governor said that if he is elected senator he will devote his time to "getting federal aid for North Dakota, good roads, and fighting for the Missouri river diversion project." If necessary to get these things and adequate federal relief, he said, he will out-Huey Huey Long.

Democratic endorsement for the senatorial nomination is J. J. Nygaard of Jamestown. He is opposed by Halvor L. Halvorsen, Minot, and E. A. Johansson, Raub, B. F. Woodall, Selen, is the union party senatorial candidate.

Last Survivors of Civil War Who Can Make It Head for Blue and Gray Reunion at Gettysburg

President Roosevelt to Address 4,000 Union and Confederate Veterans in Peaceful Gathering Where Some of Them Clashed 75 Years Ago

Eternal Light Peace memorial to be dedicated at Gettysburg battlefield by President Roosevelt, Sunday, July 3.

The encampment of the Blue and Gray reunion at Gettysburg.

All is now peaceful at Gettysburg, Pa., where Union and Confederate troops were locked in a death struggle 75 years ago. One of the many monuments that dot the battlefield is in foreground.

North and South...mellowed by the years.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 28—There is a strange stirring today among the aged veterans of the Civil war. For the last surviving veterans of the Civil war are gathering in a Blue and Gray reunion to write colorful and final chapter to an historic epoch in the nation's annals. From June 29 to July 6, they will convene where they fought a decisive battle 75 years ago.

Some 4,000 veterans, of the 8,000 surviving Union and Confederate soldiers are expected to be present. The remaining 4,000 are unable to attend because of the infirmities of age.

Roosevelt to Attend
Each veteran is bringing an attendant and the transportation and upkeep of both is being paid by the government. On July 3 President Roosevelt will pay them honor when he dedicates a peace memorial topped with an eternal flame on Gettysburg battlefield.

To the veterans the reunion marks a high tide in a long and eventful life, for death to all of them is but a few years removed. In the past 15 months one-third their number have died and by the end of 1940, it is estimated that merely a few veterans will be left of the 2,000,000 who fought in the war between the North and South.

So their dimming eyes looked longingly today toward the green fields of Gettysburg where some of them fought in the turning point of the war on July 1-2-3, 1863, yearning to meet for a last time both friend and foe alike, to discuss with aging voices the stirring events which have now passed into history.

To all of them the Pennsylvania State commission, which is supervising the joint reunion and the erection of the peace memorial, sent an invitation and a query as to whether they would be present.

Their answers, bridging the centuries, add another chapter to the history of the Civil war.

In a Wheelbarrow!
"I'll be there if I have to come in a wheelbarrow," wrote one aging veteran.

"I'll be there if I'm living at that date," wrote Samuel L. Tumbleson, former Confederate soldier, of Montague, Tex.

Wrote Sylvester D. Mosher, Oakland, Mich., who fought with Company A, 13th N. Y. Artillery: "I do not need an attendant any more than a cat needs two tails. I want to take my wife with me instead of an attendant."

From Ferdinand J. Jackson, of Tippecanoe, Ind.: "I can't tell what may happen to me before June 29, but if I live and am able I want to come."

Jerome Kendall, Millport, N. Y.—"Am 96 years old and in the best of health for this age. Am out and around every day doing light work around the house and feeling fine."

Joseph W. Paul, Pike Road, N. C.—"I have attended several Confederate reunions and have looked forward to a joint reunion where the remaining few of us might meet in friendship and peace. However, I am blind..."

W. H. L. Wells, Plano, Tex.: "I served four years in the Confederate army and was in the battle of Gettysburg. I was in Pickett's Division. I'm now nearly 98 years of age." Of the 15,000 men who made Pickett's charge across the open terrain in the face of over 100 Union guns, 12,000 were lost.

James M. Givens, Pembroke, Va., 90 years old, one of five brothers who fought in the war: "I had four brothers in the war and three were killed in battle."

William E. Watson, Bristol, Okla., Confederate soldier: "I am now 91 years and 5 months old. My son who will accompany me is nearly 65 years old. He and I served together in the Spanish-American war."

John Arbuckle, Columbus, O., who served with Sherman's army: "The Confederates will desire to march under their Civil war flag, but it should be on the staff under the Stars and Stripes." Both the Stars and Stripes and Stars and Bars will receive equal recognition at the celebration.

Henry Mack, Minneapolis, Minn., Union soldier: "I attended the G. A. R. encampment in Washington, D. C. in 1936. Am 100 years old. Am in perfect health." Mack will celebrate his 101st birthday at the reunion, on July 4.

Thomas Franklin Dornblaser, Chicago, who served under Rosecrans, Sherman and Thomas: "I was a commissary sergeant in Co. E, 7th Pennsylvania Cavalry. I was in the battle of Stoneriver and Chickamauga, Atlanta campaign and Wilson raid, in Alabama and Georgia. Was twice wounded and had three horses shot under me. Am 97 years of age. Am thankful for good health."

And from Francis Lincoln Mullinix, Westminster, Md.: "I am in good health at the present and if I keep my good health I will attend. But if I should be absent, you will know the reason."

Patriotic Square for City
BERKELEY, Cal. (UP)—The city council has decided to rename one of the city's squares "Constitutional Place" in honor of the sesquicentennial anniversary of the American Constitution.

CITY PLAY GROUP TO SEEK CIVIC CLUB SUPPORT

Circleville's recreation commission, recently appointed by Mayor W. B. Cady, held its first meeting Monday night in the law office of Joseph W. Adkins, Jr., chairman.

The purpose of the committee is to stimulate interest in the playgrounds project being conducted by W. P. A. and sponsored by the county commissioners. Each member of the committee will contact various civic organizations to obtain their support of the program. Efforts will be made to interest more adults in the program. The recreation centers are open to adults in the evenings but very few adults have taken advantage of the facilities offered.

Members of the recreation commission in addition to Mr. Adkins are W. M. Reid, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Howard Moore and Lawrence Goeller.

HIT, "TWO BOUQUETS"

Rudy Vallee presents a scene from "The Two Bouquets," Broadway's newest musical success, in the Variety Hour on Thursday, June 30. Marc Connelly, producer of "The Bouquets," will introduce the scene on the air and tell how he came to produce the show. Players from the Broadway cast to be heard in the scene and some of the music are Marcy Wescott, Patricia Morrison, Leslie French, Alfred Drake and Winston O'Keefe. Other features of the Vallee broadcast over the NBC red network at 7 p. m. are Eddie Green as Robin Hood in another "Heroes Wuz People" sketch; Tommy Riggs and Betty Lou; Rags Ragland, comedian; and an interview with Sergeant Frank Witchey, United States Army, retired. Witchey was the army's most famous bugler.

"HONEST JOHN" OAKIE

"Honest John" Oakie, who is Bing Crosby's favorite heckler, will blow into the Music Hall for a guest appearance on Thursday, June 30, along with Florence George and Gloria Stuart. Bing Crosby, Bob Burns, the Paul Taylor chorus and John Scott Trotter's orchestra, the regular habitués of the "Hall," will all be on hand for the full hour show over the NBC red network at 10 p. m. These meetings of Mrs. Oakie's son Honest John, sometimes called Jack in Hollywood, with Bing Crosby and Bob Burns are one of radio's more or less annual comedy high spots. Honest John is an old pal of Bing's and he used to play the vaudeville circuits with Bob Burns.

Florence George is a young soprano who is one of radio's contributions to the movies. She makes her Music Hall bow this week.

DOUBLE DANGER

POLICE authorities in various cities are preparing for what they expect to be one of the worst Fourth's in years. They expect it to be worse than usual because the Fourth comes on Monday and there are virtually two holidays.

Most of the serious accidents on such holidays have been found to occur on the highway, so police are urging people to stay at home as much as possible. But plenty of fatalities and casualties occur, too, around the home and on the street, from the use of fireworks, toy pistols and so on. Hundreds of cities have local laws prohibiting dangerous fireworks, except in the hands of responsible people for public display; but there are plenty of bootleggers, and it is usually possible to buy the dangerous stuff just beyond the edge of town.

Some toy pistols are said to be reasonably safe, while others are dangerous, and police in some places are said to be trying to discriminate, permitting use of the safe ones. This is really a job for parents, but it is astonishing how many parents seem to feel no responsibility about the matter and then are surprised and shocked when their children have their hands lacerated.

Such lacerations, as well-informed people should know, makes breeding places for the deadly tetanus germs and invite lockjaw. Better play safe, law or no law, and permit fireworks only in the hands of responsible grown-ups.

SOLDIER ROAD-MAKERS

THE government of Ecuador has just reduced the period of compulsory military service from one year to eleven months. The young men released are to spend that twelfth month working on national highways and irrigation projects. They will be under the direction of the Minister of Public Works instead of Army authorities.

It sounds like a useful arrangement. Military training for soldiers is an essential part of military preparedness, of course, but it can be overdone to the neglect of other matters equally important to a nation.

A month less of soldiering for young conscripts all over the world might make an amazing difference in the world outlook if the month were spent in planting, harvesting, building or making something useful, according to the place, climate and season.

While we're engaged in imagining pleasant things, there is no harm in carrying it a little farther and dreaming of the tremendous results that would follow if the month were increased gradually until fully half the year were devoted to constructive activity and only half to the military training.

World At A Glance

—By— Charles P. Stewart

Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas is conspicuously a conscientious statesman.

Of course all our lawmakers are conscientious, but not all of them are conspicuously so. The Texan is so exceedingly conscientious as to be, sometimes a trifle troublesome to certain of his associates.

For example, he annoyed several of them by his unwillingness to direct an investigation of possible future charges of relief-in-politics, in connection with pending congressional primaries and next November's election. In fact, such charges are not altogether in the future. They are being made already.

KIND OF COMMITTEE

The allegation (as we all know) is that the New Deal administration, having control of relief funds, is so utilizing them as to promote the chances of its own friendly candidates, to the corresponding disadvantage of less friendly ones. That was a matter that the anti-New Dealers wanted investigated, as the campaign was along, with a view to a scandal, if any, after election day.

Naturally the New Dealers desire no post-election scandal—if they win the election. However, they have been convinced, all along, that an anti-New Deal investigation committee would do its best to provide one.

Hence their objection to that kind of a committee.

PAST COMMITTEES

Now, there is, as a regular thing, a senate committee to investigate senatorial campaign expenditures in election years.

The idea is to guard against bribery or near-bribery.

In recent years committees of this sort put the skids under Frank Smith in Illinois and William S. Vare in Pennsylvania.

According to their respective home state returns Smith and Vare appeared to have been elected to the senate, but their investigating committees found that it was done irregularly. So the senate barred them.

SHEPPARD'S TASK

This year's investigating committee is headed by Senator Sheppard.

It was proposed, by Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, with nine senatorial backers, that a separate committee be created

P. W. A. HAS BLACKLIST

WASHINGTON—With the Public Works Administration in full swing again the old game of chiseling in on government contracts has started.

It is not supposed to be known, but P. W. A. has a blacklist of contractors, architects, and others who have chiseled the Government, and once they are on the list they cannot get another contract.

This list is the result of the fact that it is difficult for the Federal Government to punish P. W. A. contractors once the contract has been let, for the reason that in most cases the contract is signed between the contractor and a municipal or state government.

If P. W. A. discovers chiseling, however, it can refuse payments. That it does, for instance, when an architect charges an 8 percent instead of a 6 percent fee. If the local community wants to pay the larger fee, it has to do so out of its own funds.

Before a company is put on the blacklist it is permitted a complete hearing. But unless it can clear itself, the company can get no more P. W. A. contracts, even when let through local governments.

BLUSHING BRIDEGROOM

Washington newsmen, who after five years experience have learned to expect the unexpected from Secretary Harold Ickes, have discovered something new about him. He can—and does—blush.

They made the discovery at his first press conference after returning from the European honeymoon. Ickes was a few minutes late and as he stepped into his office, the large gathering of reporters rose and applauded, while several of them whistled "Here Comes the Bride".

Ickes grinned broadly and then blushed a deep red.

His customary aplomb returned quickly, however. After the photographers had exploded flashlight bulbs in his face for nearly ten minutes, he finally broke out, "Ye gods, I thought all the bulbs in the country had been used up on me in the last few days. You boys had better quit now; I don't want to monopolize the picture business."

"But, Mr. Secretary," called out a reporter, "you ought to encourage consumption. Isn't that part of the spending program?"

McNUTT FOR SENATOR

Don't be surprised if Philippine High Commissioner Paul McNutt suddenly pops up in Indiana as the Democratic candidate against anti-New Deal Senator Fred Van Nuys.

Some of his close friends are urging him to get into the race. One of them has been burning up the cables with this advice.

When McNutt was in the U. S. last winter his political master minds were against his going into the Senate, on the theory that a term there might blight instead of boost his presidential ambitions. But some of them now feel differently.

They think it would be good strategy for him to be in Washington. It would give him a chance to strengthen his labor record, one of his weak spots, and also provide him with a forum to keep actively in the public eye.

DIET AND HEALTH

Here Is Diet Now Used in Disease of Kidneys

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D. SUMMER MONTHS are good ones for the kidney invalid because the skin takes the burden off the kidneys to a certain extent. Some forms of kidney disease have been cured by going to a desert climate such as New Mexico or Arizona or to Egypt. Summer climate in the United States closely approximates Egypt, so the nephritic may feel more comfortable at this time.

In the dietetic treatment of kidney disease, the principal considerations are to control the intake of salt, fluid and protein. In some cases the kidney cannot excrete salt or water and dropsy results, and in some cases there is a disturbance of protein nutrition. When the kidney is unable to excrete nitrogen it is natural that we should cut down the nitrogenous foods in the diet. This means very largely the protein foods, such as meat, eggs, etc.

Nowadays the salt-free diet, in which no salt whatever is used, is thought to be excessively rigorous and is substituted by a salt-poor diet. It is almost impossible to make up a diet which excludes salt entirely.

Diet in Severe Phase
In the early phase of treatment of severe nephritis a diet as follows is used, which is as near dry, salt-free and protein-free as is safe to give:

BREAKFAST: One-half slice toast, one serving fruit, one teaspoon sugar.

LUNCHEON: One-half slice toast, two-thirds cup cream soup, one-half square butter.

DINNER: One-half slice toast, one glass milk, one pat butter, one egg.

Later a diet such as follows can be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clending can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

FIESTA

CHAPTER 44

SOME PEOPLE, it has been proven, can dance steadily right on through an afternoon and night and still be going strong next morning. Bill Baron couldn't say just how many of Ellen's guests had done that, but shortly after dawn on Saturday he noted that the fiesta was still under way. He himself had slept for five hours.

"People kept coming all night, Doc," one of the cowboys informed him. "Much viva la musica, ain't it?"

"You said it," Bill yawned. "Ought to be sure 'nough fun tonight."

Many others were sleeping, however, and breakfasts were being eaten at all hours, even to past noon. Men who were up during the morning engaged in impromptu rodeo stunts, mostly bucking horse riding. Ellen came out and spent an hour with them—to the men's delight. When she stayed on a bucking horse for the allotted 10 seconds, the men waved their hats and cheered so loudly, that everybody came out of the house to see what caused the excitement.

Three or four fellows had become obnoxiously intoxicated and Bill escorted them off to the houses. A couple of lads took to flats over a girl, and the others present made them scrap it out in a makeshift boxing ring. That totaled all the trouble for the first 24 hours.

Ellen sought out Bill at about four that afternoon.

"I'm worried about food," she admitted. "Do you suppose there'll be enough for everybody?" For the first time since the fiesta began, Bill pushed back his huge cowboy hat, and surveyed the various groups of carefree people.

"I think so," he drawled. "But I'll check up and be sure, Ellen."

He went then to the main storehouse of the rancho, a flat adobe structure which had been built 50 yards or so back of Ellen's home. It was a catch-all, to house all manner of things such as an extra barrel of flour, barrel of sugar, cans of coffee, slabs of cured bacon and hams, rolls of barbed wire for fencing, tools, all the assorted and valuable things needed in running a ranch except the saddles and harness which were kept near the corals. Bill noted an abundance of kitchen supplies; then while probing around he made another discovery.

"Be doggoned!" he murmured to himself, curious.

More than 20 rifles had been placed on the floor back in a dark corner behind some stacks of boxes, and covered with empty bags.

He examined the guns. All were loaded. He concluded that some of the guests had put them there for safe-keeping, not wishing to appear at a party with such arms, but expecting to go on a hunting trip later. He re-covered them and dismissed the matter from his mind.

This storage room was a long one, and in the other end Bill had put some sacks of especially prepared calf feed used in his feeding tests. The sacks were stacked along high, and because a window behind them afforded light, and because a little nook of privacy was made there by the sacks, he sat down to rest and think a bit. He wanted this moment, alone, to check over all fiesta details in his mind, and on his pocket notebook. Privacy was impossible outside.

He had sat there 10 minutes when his thoughts drifted to personal things. Sid Bromberg wanted him to go to Hollywood. The money offer had been a big one. Even if he didn't make good, the one six months' contract would set him up in life, he knew. But he'd feel like a fool in Hollywood, money or no; his life was on the open range. He had been born and reared there, and except for college in Houston, Tex., he had stayed there.

A man had best stick with what he knows. And loves. But Bill wanted money. He needed it so he could court the girl he loved. He had been in careful disguise off with Ellen Dale because he lacked money. He had kidded her some but he had not proposed to her seriously ever. He wanted to, but he couldn't tie her down. She had remained free to take her own choice anywhere, even though he felt she truly liked him. This money from Bromberg would give him a chance.

His thoughts ran in this vein when voices interrupted him. Two men had come in the door. Automatically he peered between two of the sacks—then restrained his impulse to greet them.

Both men apparently were fiesta guests. But recognition of one caused Bill instant alarm.

"Why that's—that's the man who smuggled me out of Mexico!" he told himself, incredulous.

He kept still, listening. The men went to the concealed pile of rifles. They spoke in guarded tones.

"They are here," one man told the other, in Spanish. "And in this can labeled kerosene is the cocaine."

"Good!" approved the other. "But watch your tongue. Now how many men are here?"

"Forty-three, so far. There will be others. A few we can trust to have rifles. But there are enough rifles for ourselves, anyway. All are loaded. We must not stay here long now. There are many empty feed sacks around. Tonight we can take rifles rolled in a sack to each car. No one will suspect."

"Right. But let's get out of here."

They left the building, and Bill Baron sat trying to digest what he had overheard. The dialogue had amazed him, as had discovery of the smuggler. He found his pulse beating fast so excited was he now.

He left his seat, though, and came cautiously around the stacks of feed bags. He thought it best to stay inside for several minutes. He peered through a corner of a window. It commanded a view of Ellen's kitchen and back yard, an unfenced area where Mexican cooks and other servants were at work. People were milling around everywhere. Bill studied faces intently at long range.

Presently he slipped out, moving cautiously, and began to circulate among the guests. He had a smile and greeting for everyone. He found the smuggler with one group and stayed clear of him. Although Bill had been in careful disguise down in Mexico, the smuggler just might recognize him again, he feared.

He went all over the place. Some couples were playing cards on the ground. Some swapping yarns. Women and girls were being courted by bashful swains. At this late an afternoon hour, all seemed to be taking life a bit easier, resting for the dancing they knew would be resumed at sundown and continue until another dawn. Indians were playing games, eating, loafing. Bill noted that a considerable number of the guests spoke only Spanish and kept as inconspicuous as possible. "Be damned!" he growled to himself. "This taking place right here under my nose!"

He understood the situation thoroughly, but he could not make up his mind what to do. He hoped above all to avoid spoiling Ellen's fiesta. He had to figure out something.

He realized the smugglers had put their rifles and cocaine in Ellen's own storehouse as being the safest possible place. Nobody would normally suspect anything contraband there, not even any snooping federal officer who might chance along. Neither aliens nor smugglers would dare go right into the ranch houses with such dangerous things, people would say, therefore it became the ideal place. Often the "impossible" place is the best spot for concealment; often audacity and daring will accomplish more than meticulous hiding or force.

Bill's anger mounted as he walked about, thinking. He kept his face smiling, his greeting casual and hearty. But a keen observer might have read much in his eyes.

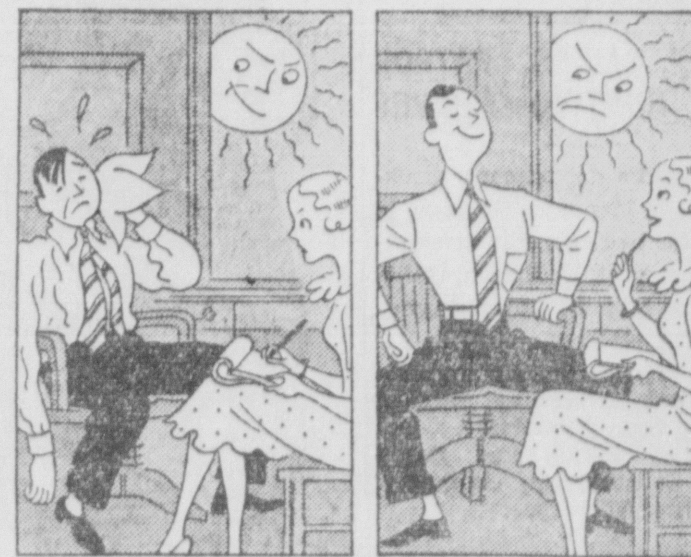

After a bit he went to his own room. When he was sure nobody could see him, he strapped on a belt of cartridges and two six guns.

"No," he said then, to himself, and removed the weapons.

Instead, he put one loaded revolver inside his shirt bosom, stuck under his belt. He put on a beaded rawhide jacket that he had bought the day before from an Indian woman and made sure that it concealed the pistol's bulge. Then he ambled back outside, heading finally for Ellen's house. He wanted to use her telephone.

Leslie Pontius Speaks At Sorority Session

Chapter Closes Year's Work Monday

Leslie L. Pontius of W. High street was guest speaker for the meeting of Phi Beta Psi sorority, Iota Delta chapter, Monday evening, at the home of Miss Pauline Hill of Park Place. Mr. Pontius' interesting talk on the beauty spots of Pickaway, Hocking and Fairfield counties was splendidly illustrated with color slides which he had taken on his nature study trips. A short business session was held in charge of Miss Hill, president of the chapter. This will be the last meeting of the group until Fall. Thirteen members were present for the meeting. Confections were served by the hostess during the evening.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

HAVE YOU ever tried growing your own lilies, that is the Candidum or testaceum varieties? It's quite simple, and there is a thrill in doing it successfully.

After the lily has finished blooming pull out the stem from the bulb, taking care, of course, not to break it off. Next remove the leaves from the bottom section and plant this part in a somewhat protected and shady place in the garden, as shown in this Garden-Graph. Mulch the earth around the stalk and water during dry weather.

New lilies from old

Leave the stalk in the ground about two months, then dig it up carefully. By this time there should be many small bulbs or bulbets growing in the axils of the leaves. These bulbets, in turn, can be planted and coaxed into strong, healthy lily plants.

Keep the surface of the soil in your garden loose and free of weeds by frequent cultivation. For comfort and convenience in the chore of weeding, use a kneeling pad.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

ENTRIES NOT NEEDED
WHEN YOU can see that a simple finesse would set up the dummy's suit, even if your partner had the king, what is the use of trying to knock a side entry out of the dummy? You would only waste opportunity by doing so. The declarer could win the trick, drop the rest of the trumps and then sail on with the long suit. In a spot like this, your sole chance is to whack at the one remaining suit, in the hope that your partner can get the setting tricks there.

North opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Diamond, East passed and South called 2-Clubs. West put in a bid of 2-Spades and North and East passed. When South continued the bidding with 4-Clubs,

North went to 4-Diamonds and South to 5-Clubs.
Against this contract, West led the club 3, which East won with the A. Having heard that the important thing to do with a long suit in dummy was to knock out the entry, he failed to realize that he had a more important mission in this particular case. His partner had put in an overcall and as he didn't have the A or Q of the suit, wasn't it likely that he held some strength in hearts? Had he shifted to that suit, instead of attacking spades, the contract would have been immediately set one.

MILLER CLOUTS FELLER PITCHES BALL TO HELP NINTH MARGIN KASEY OUTFIT OVER RED SOX

COLUMBUS, June 28—(UP)—Cut adrift from the Cincinnati Reds' farm system because of weaknesses at the plate, Eddie Miller, 21-year-old shortstop of the Kansas City Blues, today appeared to be one of the most valuable players who will be thrown on the market at the close of the current American Association season.

Cincinnati took several looks at the fleet and fancy fielding Miller and then repeatedly sent him back to some minor league affiliate. His .242 batting average at Toronto in 1936 and his .233 average of last season at Syracuse finally caused the Redjacks to abandon hope for him.

Sent to Kansas City this Spring, Miller suddenly became a hitter. He has been among the leading 10 batsmen from the start of the campaign and now owns a healthy .330 average.

The flashy young shortstop proved his worth again last night as his potent bat paced Kansas City to an 8 to 2 triumph over Minneapolis in a 10 inning battle. With the Blues behind 2 to 1 going into the ninth Miller slammed out a home run to knot the count. In the 10th he came up again, this time with the bases loaded and hit another circuit drive to clinch the decision.

The victory of Kansas City coupled with losses by Indianapolis and St. Paul tightened the Association pennant race. Although in third place Kansas City now trails the leading Indianapolis club by only one game.

Indianapolis was beaten 2 to 1 by Columbus last night and St. Paul fell before Milwaukee 12 to 9. In the other game Toledo outslugged Louisville to win 9 to 5.

JOHNNY TO FACE BAUERS IN GAME WITH PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 28—(UP)—Johnny Vander Meer, the major league's outstanding rookie for 1938, was to go after his ninth consecutive victory here today as the Cincinnati Reds opened a series with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Russ Bauers was to oppose him.

Vander Meer has lost only two games this season and one of those was to the Pirates. On the first stop of the season here the young southpaw was knocked out of the box in the third inning as Pittsburgh pushed across four runs. Since that date Vander Meer has started 10 contests and went the route in eight of them.

The Reds face the necessity of winning here or falling back in the pennant chase. Pittsburgh is in fourth place, but only one full game to the rear of Cincinnati, which is second in the standing.

ALLEN IS AFTER TENTH CONTEST WITHOUT LOSS

NEW YORK, June 28—(UP)—Johnny Allen, Cleveland's big right hander who won 15 straight last year and finished with the highest winning percentage in the history of the American league, already has spun another imposing string, and goes after his 10th consecutive today.

With his team riding a four-game lead, Allen, who lost only the last game of the season in 1937 for a winning average of .938, will work against the Detroit Tigers.

After losing the opening game of 1938 to the St. Louis Browns, Allen has beaten Detroit and New York twice each, bowled over the Philadelphia Athletics three times, and scored over Chicago and Washington once each.

Allen and young Bob Feller, who scored his ninth victory against two defeats yesterday, are two reasons why Oscar Vitt has been able to keep the heretofore erratic Indians at the top of the standings since May 19.

FIVE ENTRIES TO VIE IN WESTERN AMERICAN RACE

HOLLYWOOD PARK, Inglewood, Cal., June 28—(UP)—A five-horse field, one of the smallest ever named for such a rich event, was in prospect today for the $50,000-added American championship stake—Hollywood's version of the 1938 Kentucky Derby.

The entry of Lawrin and Dauber, first and second in the bluegrass classic, has frightened away virtually all opposition for tomorrow's race. Only three challenging three-year-olds have accepted the issue—Raoul Walsh's French importation, Mount Vernon; Major Austin C. Taylor's Tanforan three-year-old champion, Fire Marshall; and Cleveland Putnam's Wing and Wing.

The track will permit six starters and there still is room for one more horse. If there is any shift in the line-up, however, the field probably will be made smaller instead of larger. The first two positions have been conceded by the experts to Lawrin and Dauber, and any other contests will be strictly for show money.

NAVY VICTORY IN ROWING RACE HAILED FINEST

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 28—(UP)—This old river town, which has seen the best of them come and go, still applauded today the greatest triumph in the history of the Poughkeepsie rowing regatta—a record-smashing victory by an inspired Navy crew which refused to be beaten.

The experts had said it was "in the bag" for the West again; that the East couldn't hope to send a crew home in front and shatter the monopoly which California and Washington have shared on the four-mile event down the Hudson river.

But the gallant sailors, who were second to Washington last year, didn't believe it. They had to win because they had promised their coach, Charles (Buck) Walsh who lay in Vassar hospital with a severe spinal injury, that they would.

FIGHTER, 17, DIES

CHICAGO, June 28—(UP)—The coroner's office began an investigation today into the death last night of Peter Gribari, 17, who failed to recover from a knockout blow received in an amateur boxing bout. He was fighting Raymond Maher, 16, when he was knocked unconscious near the end of their third round bout. He had won the first two rounds.

FEED TEAM WINS 4 TO 2 CONTEST FROM OIL SQUAD

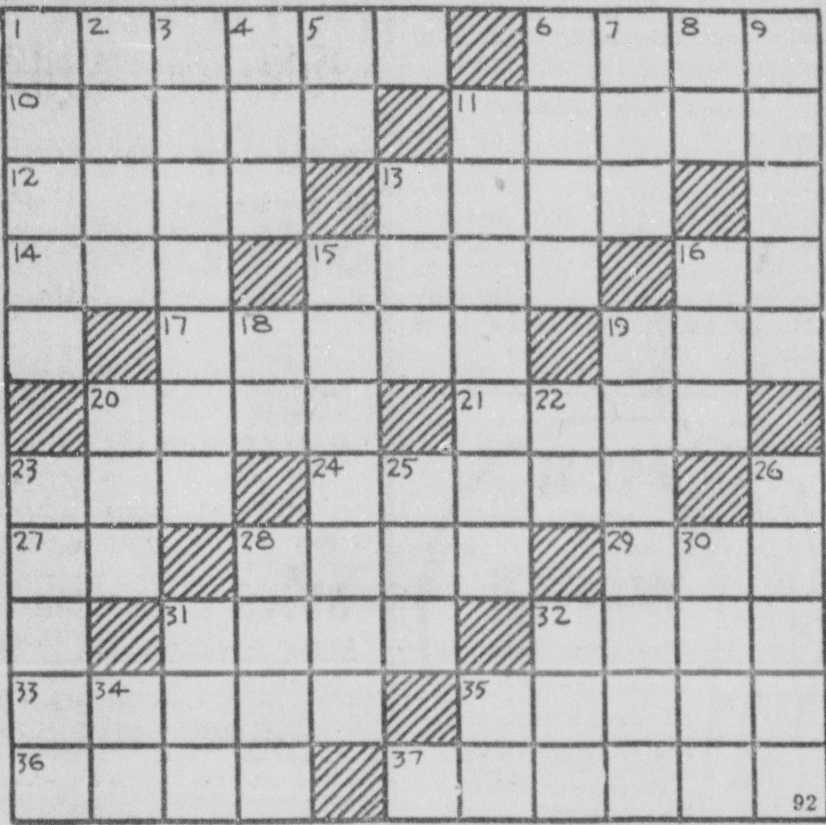

Esheleman Outfit Tightens Grasp On First Place; Fenton's In Path

Esheleman Feed softball players put another mighty foe from their path leading to the first half championship in the recreation loop when they defeated the Circleville Oils, 4-2, Monday evening. The Esheleman team has now won five straight league contests and has only two foes to turn back before claiming the gonfalon. The Feeds meet the second place Fenton aggregation next Tuesday evening and tangle with the Cain food market the following Friday. Fenton Cleaners, losers of only one contest, have a chance to gain a tie or pass the Feeds in the first half if the Esheleman crew should fall. Fentons play the Jollies Thursday evening, the Esheleman crew next Tuesday and the Glitt food market the following Monday to wind up its first half play.

W. P. A. APPROVES PROJECT TO IMPROVE 55 MILES OF ROADS

$322,743 COST EXPECTED FOR HUGE PROGRAM

Officials To Paint Many Bridges; Curbs, Gutters Planned In Villages

Approval of the project for the improvement of at least 55 miles of county and township roads under W. P. A. was announced Tuesday by Congressman Harold Claypool of Chillicothe. The approval was made by President Roosevelt.

This project was prepared as a second supplement to the county road program under W. P. A. It totals $322,743, including the federal share of $262,781, and the sponsor's, the county and townships, $59,962. Federal labor on the project amounts to $240,743, materials $19,658 and other costs $2,380. The project would provide work for 400 men for one year. The share of the sponsors' includes materials, equipment and engineering costs.

The work schedules for the roads will be prepared as needed. County officials hope to paint about 20 ridges and they may build curbs and gutters in villages.

Road improvements under the project include grading, widening, surfacing, extending drainage lines and structures, improving creek channels by changing alignment, riprapping, constructing berms and other incidental work.

'PHANTOM' HELD IN PIKE COUNTY AFTER CAPTURE

CHILLICOTHE, June 28.—George Lytle, 19, of Moffettsville, Tenn., who has been sought for the last two weeks as Chillicothe's "Black Phantom", was in the Waverly jail Tuesday.

The man was captured by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Foster along Hutton Run, Pike county, Sunday. Despite a bullet wound in his leg, Lytle showed fight when overtaken by Deputy Foster. By feigning death he almost succeeded in snatching the officer's gun as the officer bent over him.

Lytle escaped from Chillicothe police on June 10. He said he had "rambled" through the hills, living off berries and whatever else he could obtain. A posse had started out in search for him determined to put an end to a series of food thefts from farm houses in the Owl Creek section of Pike county.

Barbara, Husband Ready To File Divorce Suit

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, June 28.—(UP)—Attorneys for Countess Barbara Haugwitz-Reventlow have taken steps preliminary to filing suit for separation and divorce from Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, it was learned today.

The ministry of justice said that a lawyer for the Countess, the former Barbara Hutton, $40,000,000 five and ten cent store heiress, had submitted a formal inquiry whether the Danish courts could deal with proceedings for a separation or divorce.

The lawyer was told, it was said, that the Danish courts must handle the entire matter because both the Countess and her husband were Danish subjects.

Also, it was said, ministry of justice experts decided that if divorce proceedings were eventually instituted, they must be heard by the city courts of Copenhagen.

Countess Barbara last December renounced her American citizenship for the Danish nationality of her husband.

It was understood that lawyers for both the Countess and the Count had conferred with ministry of justice officials, but the initial action came from the Countess's side.

Both Must Appear

It would be necessary for the Count and Countess to come to Copenhagen for the initial arguments but they would not have to remain here.

The first step would be a suit for separation. The courts, if they approved the plea—probably by the Countess—would name a period of perhaps a year, at the judge's discretion, during which there would be a judicial separation. At the end of whatever separation period the judge named, a suit for divorce could be filed.

Possibly little news of the events leading to disagreement between the Countess and her husband would become public if suit were brought here. Either party to a separation or divorce action may ask for absolute secrecy. If such a request was made, the hearings would be held in secret and Danish newspapers would be permitted to mention only that the courts had started to consider the case and the final decision handed down. Violation of a court order for secrecy is punishable by fine or imprisonment and editors of offending newspapers are held responsible.

Efforts Have Failed

Most people believe that the Count and Countess would reach a friendly agreement regarding any suit. However, it was reported today that efforts so far to settle the dispute amicably had failed.

INDIANA TAKES KILLER'S LIFE

Canadian, Reprieved For Week, Executed For Killing Deputy

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 28.—(UP)—Robert Shaw, 27-year-old ex-convict, was electrocuted early today at the state penitentiary for the murder of Henry Spice, a LaGrange county, Ind., deputy sheriff.

He was pronounced dead at 12:09 a. m. Only prison officials, physicians and the prison chaplain were present. Warden Alfred Dowd said Shaw went to his death without making a statement.

His execution had been set for midnight Thursday but was halted by a dramatic last minute reprieve, resulting from the intervention of Warren Dowd.

At that time Dowd said he was not certain that the death sentence imposed on a plea of guilty and without a jury trial was proper. He telephoned Gov. M. Clifford Townsend who granted a stay until today. Then Omer S. Jackson, Indiana attorney general, ruled that the conviction had been proper and the execution was rescheduled.

Yesterday Shaw lived his "last" day for the second time. He went through the same routine as he had on Thursday. He ate another "last" meal and read the Bible.

Shaw was born in Canada and was a British subject. He shot and killed Deputy Spice, Dec. 3, 1937, while being sought as a suspect in the robbery of a grocery store at Kendallville, Ind. He was captured the next day.
